DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Objections

Claim 5 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 1 after "wherein" "the" should be inserted. Appropriate correction is required.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 2 recites the limitation ""other parts of the cylinder head or pressure cover, including connecting parts" in lines 5 and 6. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4, 5 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takenaka et al (USPN 5,429,482)

Takenaka et al discloses an axial piston compressor having a housing (2,1) with a front through which the driven end of the drive shaft extends and a rear which is covered by a cylinder head (4). There are radial bearings (6b,6c) near the front and rear of the housing and an axial bearing (6c) within the cylinder head at the rear of the housing. Any forces exerted by the cylinder (1) on the valve plate (43) are only transferred to the axial bearing so the desired result set forth in claim 2 is met. The examiner notes that claim 4 sets forth a future act. Since after assembly the device can be disassembled to access the bearing this claim is anticipated. With regards to claim 5 the axial bearing is within a cylindrical recess (17) of the cylinder head.

Claims 1, 4, 5 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kimura et al (USPN 5,626,463)

Kimura et al discloses an axial piston compressor having a housing (10,12) with a front through which the driven end of the drive shaft extends and a rear which is covered by a cylinder head (14). There are radial bearings (48,50) near the front and rear of the housing and an axial bearing (84) within a recess of cylinder head at the rear of the housing. The examiner notes that claim 4 sets forth a future act. Since after assembly the device can be disassembled to access the bearing this claim is anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Takenaka et al or Kimura et al.

As set forth above each of the Takenaka et al and Kimura et al references disclose the invention substantially as claimed but do not set forth that a pulley is attached to the end of the drive shaft. The examiner gives official notice that pulley's are well know mechanisms attached to axial piston drive shafts. At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to use a pulley in order to transfer a drive force to the pump from a remote motor drive.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3 and 6-13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

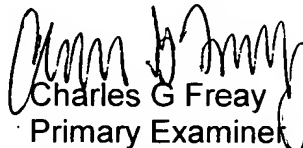

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Umemura discloses in Fig. 1 a thread adjustment for an axial bearing.
